Greetings, Believeco

Not long ago, I became aware of your Winter 2024 internship, looking for a Web Developer, a type of work that I love and am good at. When looking for potential internships or jobs online, your listing stood out, even among the paid work.

Throughout my post-secondary education, the area of work that I've been the most interested in and passionate about is web development. As a result, through both my coursework and personal projects, I have developed a proficiency in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. My experience also extends to designing responsive, dynamic websites and developing APIs with Node.js. Additionally, I only have a solid understanding of version control with Git.

In my past projects, I've made user-friendly interfaces, and handled databases, which has increased my ability to write clean, efficient and maintainable code. I'm also fairly experienced with some HTML, CSS, and JavaScript frameworks like Bootstrap and Express.js, which can help bring more efficient code and dynamic websites to you.

I am confident that my passion for web development, my willingness to learn, and my skills will make me a valuable member of Believeco for this internship. I look forward to further discussing how my me and my skills can be of value to your organization.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Whitenect
